

IN THE SPECIFICATION

Please replace the abstract with the following:

A FLASH memory device performs a blank check and sets a busy bit to indicate the memory device is busy, and sets a status bit to indicate blank or not blank. A device external to the FLASH memory device may send a blank check command to a command interface within the FLASH memory device, and may also check a status register for the busy bit and the status bit.